

NATIONAL DISASTER MANAGEMENT AGENCY (NaDMA)

MEDIA RELEASE

GRENADA TO BE AFFECTED BY A TROPICAL WAVE SUNDAY INTO MONDAY

St. George's, Grenada - Sunday July 14, 2019.

The National Disaster Management Agency (NaDMA) has been advised by the Meteorological Office at the Maurice Bishop International Airport that Grenada and her dependencies are expected to be affected by a Tropical Wave on Sunday 14th and Monday 15th July.

According to the midday weather forecast from the Met. Office, conditions are expected to be partly cloudy and breezy, gradually increasing in cloudiness, with moderate to heavy scattered nighttime showers and isolated thundershowers.

A possible flood and landslide warning has been issued.

NaDMA therefore advises citizens to be vigilant and cautious when travelling, or if they live in areas prone to flooding.

We further remind the public that we are officially into the 2019 Atlantic Hurricane Season, and encourage all citizens to always “BE PREPARED”.

NaDMA, through the Meteorological Office will continue to monitor the Tropical wave and provide an update of any changes.
